

PRIVACY POLICY

At Belhasa Used Cars, we value your privacy and are committed to protecting your personal information. When you use our website, you may provide personal data, which we handle carefully as outlined below:

Collection and Use of Information:

We may record audio, video, digital communications, or other interactions you have with us. Personal information you provide may be used to send you marketing materials such as newsletters. You can unsubscribe from these communications at any time. Your data is securely stored in our company database and will never be shared with unauthorized third parties. When appropriate, your information may be used for marketing, research, or other related activities.

Sharing Information with Partners:

We may share information with trusted business partners or vendors who support our services, including those offering reward programs, marketing services, or other business operations. We may also provide aggregate statistics about website traffic, sales, and customer behavior to authorized third parties. All information is obtained in good faith or as required by law.

Third-Party Advertisements and Cookies:

Our website displays advertisements delivered by third parties, who may collect information about you and your online activities. Please note that we do not control the data collected by these third parties. We use cookies on our website to enhance your browsing experience and deliver personalized ads. Cookies also help us collect anonymous internet log data and visitor behavior patterns to improve the site. For the best experience, please ensure cookies are enabled on your device.
